

福宁古五校教学联合体 2024-2025 学年第一学期期中质量监测

高一英语试题参考答案

第一部分 听力 (每小题 1.5 分, 满分 30 分)

1-5 CACAC 6-10 ACCBA 11-15 BCBBC 16-20 BBAAB

第二部分 阅读 (每小题 2.5 分, 满分 40 分)

21-23 DBC 24-27 BACD 28-31 CDBA 32-36 FCADG

第三部分 完形填空 (共 15 小题; 每小题 1 分, 满分 15 分)

37-41 CDBAC 42-46 DBACD 47-51 ABDCA

第四部分 完成句子 (共 5 小题; 每空 1 分, 满分 10 分)

52. on campus 53. made up 54. working out 55. Rather than
56. fell apart

第五部分 语法填空 (共 10 小题; 每小题 1.5 分, 满分 15 分)

57. successfully 58. ninth 59. has won 60. fastest 61. proved
62. to pursue 63. which 64. of 65. Faced 66. recognition

第六部分 书面表达 (共两节, 满分 40 分)

第一节 应用 (满分 15 分)

One possible version:

Dear Jack,

I'm writing to share one of my wonderful experiences with you.

Last Friday our school went on a day trip to a hill surrounded by trees in the suburb. All the way we admired the scenery. The air was fresh, and the rolling hill was amazing. From the travel, I find out the real meaning of eco-travel: It not only helps us come to love nature, but arouses our sense of responsibility. That is, as we enjoy the beauty of nature, we should maintain the harmony between humans and nature. All in all, eco-travel should be like this: take nothing away but your good memory; leave nothing behind but a clean environment.

I have come to love eco-travel and hope I can enjoy eco-travel together with you.

All the best,

Li Hua

第二节 读后续写（满分 25 分）

One possible version:

One day, the ballet teacher in her school was late. Gracia was asked to keep an eye on the girls so that they would behave themselves (目的状语从句). Once inside the ballet room, all her old memories came flooding back. She couldn't control herself anymore. She started by teaching some steps to the girls and then carried on dancing herself for some time. Unaware of the time and people around her (形容词短语作状语), Gracia was lost in her own little dancing world.

“What a perfect dance, Gracia!” said the ballet teacher entering the classroom. Hearing her voice (现在分词短语作状语), Gracia stopped dancing. She was embarrassed to see the teacher in front of her and was at a loss for words. This was the first time that someone had said she was a wonderful dancer (宾语从句). Then the teacher, who was shocked to see Gracia's amazing skills (定语从句), asked Gracia to visit a dance trainer with her. From then on, she kept practicing ballet every day. At last, Gracia's dream of being a world-famous ballet dancer came true.

听力原文

Text 1

M: What a beautiful bag! When did you buy it?

W: Actually I didn't buy it. My friend's company gave it to her as a prize, but she didn't like it. (1)

Text 2

W: Where is Tony? He isn't in the office.

M: I saw him at the supermarket a few minutes ago.(2)

W: Oh, he must be preparing for Lily's going-away party.

Text 3

M: What a shame the weather's so bad today. It looks like we'll have to cancel our bike ride.

W: We could go see a movie instead.

M: I'd prefer that to just staying in watching TV until the rain stops.(3)

Text 4

W: This brown shirt looks quite nice on you.(4)

M: Oh no, the design is alright but the color is bad. Brown looks terrible.

Text 5

W: Can you describe your knowledge of computer viruses?

M: I have created over 2,000 anti-virus programs myself.

W: Great! We are looking for talents with working knowledge of computer viruses.(5)

Text 6

W: Hi, John, what are you doing now?

M: Hi, Lily. I am reviewing my notes of Mr, Edward's class.

W: Wow, your notes are quite good. To tell you the truth, note-taking is my biggest disadvantage. I can't understand even shortly after the class.(6) Would you please tell me what my problem is?

M: Do you always write down all the things the professor said?

W: Yes. Why not?

M: In my opinion, note-taking is to take down the key points rather than all the things that the professor said.(7)

Text 7

M: Sally, would you like to see the new film directed by Peter Lloyd with me this Saturday?

W: You mean The Adventure of Little Ralph? Why not?! I read a review on a website and the critics say it's amazing. (8) Also, I'm a huge fan of Jerry Peterson who starred in it.(9)

Mi: Yes, I like his acting too.(9) Let me reserve the tickets for 7 p.m. (10)How does it sound?

W: Great. Why don't we meet an hour earlier so that we can go for a bite to eat?(10) I know a good French restaurant near Hollywood Cinema.

M: Good idea.

Text 8

W: The problem is that too many people create too much waste.

M: Yes. You know, if everyone recycled more, we'd reduce a lot of waste, I mean, look at the amount of paper we waste in this office.(11) It's crazy.

W: Exactly, Alex. And coffee cups, too.

M: Yes, right. If we recycled our paper and the paper cups, we'd save a lot of waste.

W: That's right. And don't forget plastic. Nobody recycles their plastic water bottles. Let's do something.

M: Well, I would take the plastic bottles to the recycling center.(12) And I'll make a collection box which people can put their water bottles in.(13)

W: I'll make two collection boxes for paper and cans.(13) If we put them in the kitchen, people will see them. We'd save a lot of waste. We're going to make a difference.

Text 9

M: Jude, what are you looking so annoyed about?

W: Oh, Tom, I had to catch the bus to school today because my bike's at the repair shop. (14) I hate going on the bus. I would rather walk to school. I can walk along beside the river and see many animals. It's great.

M: Yeah, your school is in a really nice place. I was pretty disappointed when I wasn't selected.

W: But you're glad to go to Park School now, aren't you?

M: Oh yes. I like it. I wouldn't have been able to study Spanish or design technology if I'd gone to your school.(15)

W: Maybe, but our sports teams usually beat yours!

M: That's not always true! We beat you at tennis last month.

W: Yeah, but our footballers have just won a match.

M: I read about it in the newspaper. There was also a report in the same paper about our school.

W: Is the head teacher of your school thinking about changing school uniforms, like our head teacher is?

M: I don't think our uniforms need to be changed. They look quite smart and are comfortable.(16)

Text 10

M: I can tell you when I became interested in becoming a writer: I was in the third grade. I lived in about four places in two and a half years(17), and you know when you're a kid and going out of one school and into another, you really want to connect and get people to like you and so forth. It was in Dunsmuir, California. I was the new kid in class, and we were assigned to write a short essay(18). No one else in class knew what an essay was, exactly; I sort of knew. So I got a subject. My mother took me to the library(19), showed me where to look things up, and how, without writing the thing for me. And the subject was how laughing killed the pain. I had to read it out to the class, and the teacher praised it. And the other kids liked it. I was King of the Class for that whole day.(20) I thought: God, if this is being a writer, I want to be a writer! So that was essentially when I decided to be a writer. All the ambitions that I had ever after were somehow tied to writing.