M: Hello. International Friends Club. Can I help you?

W: Oh, hello. I read about your club in the paper today and I thought I'd phone to find out a bit more.

M: Yes, certainly. Well, we are a sort of social club for people from different countries. It's quite a new club—we have about 50 members at the moment, but we are growing all the time.

W: That sounds interesting. I'm British actually, and I came to Washington about three months ago. I'm looking for ways to meet people. Er, what kinds of events do you organize?

M: Well, we have social get-togethers, and sports events, and we also have language evenings.

W: Could you tell me something about the language evenings?

M: Yes. Every day except Thursday we have a language evening. People can come and practice their languages—you know, over a drink or something. We have different languages on different evenings. Monday—Spanish; Tuesday—Italian; Wednesday—German; and Friday—French. On Thursday we usually have a meal in a restaurant for anyone who wants to come.

W: Well, that sounds great. I really need to practice my French.

M: OK. Well, if you can just give me your name and address, I'll send you the form and some more information. If you join now, you can have the first month free.

M: No worries. I'd rather be relaxing at the bottom of the mountain instead. Let's go down slowly.

W: OK, I'm ready. Do you want to eat in a restaurant?

M: Yes. When we're finished with dinner and drinks, we can walk home.

W: Like what?

M: Picking up our passports, going to buy our plane tickets and finding out who we should look for to look after our apartment while we are gone.

M: Bill Martin.

W: And your address?

M: The Garden Apartment on Books Road.

W: Well, the price depends on the size, not on the words. So, if you want to use shorter words, that might save you some money.

M: Oh, that's a good idea. I have everything written out here, but I'll just check it over before I give it to you. Maybe I should use phrases instead of sentences.

W: Would you like to pay cash or by credit card?

M: I'll probably be gone before a bill could be sent. I'm going to pay cash.

M: You are always a lucky dog. By the way, Lydia, who's going to pick us up?

W: George. At least he said he would.

M: Can we depend on him? He's kind of a late riser, and though it's not the rush hour, I doubt if he will be here on time this time.

W: Don't worry, Clifford. Take it easy. Well, do you have something planned after the picnic? I decide to stay home for some reading. What do you have in mind?

M: I'm going to take a walk around to take in some fresh air.

W: Well, everyone has his way of relaxation.

M: I can hear a car outside. I guess it must be George.

M: When I showed up, at my first job interview, it was my last year at middle school. All my friends said how nervous they were for their interviews. I thought to myself, "If you look nervous, it is a sign of weakness." When I went to McDonald's for the interview, I thought it would be a piece of cake. But my answer to every question was "I don't know". Not surprisingly, I didn't get that part-time job. The following year I had a second chance at a gas station. This time I showed up in a nice shirt with a tie and answered every question politely. And I got the job. I learned how to deal with money, how to fix cars, and how to deal with people. Most importantly, I had learned a life skill. When I graduated from high school, and my friends were still working at coffee shops, I was working for a building company. I helped build the Westin Hotel and Ocean View Apartments. It inspired me to become an engineer, and now I design and build airplanes. So how did I get to where I am? My teachers would say it sure wasn't my study habits; In my case, I learned with my hands.

The Person I Admire Most

Of all the role models, I admire Zhang Guimei most, the headmaster of Huaping Senior High School for Girls in Yunnan Province.

When Zhang went there to support education decades ago, she was shocked to find a lot of girls dropped out of school due to poverty. Feeling heartbroken, she was determined to create the high school for girls with no fee to light up the dreams of girls in the poverty-stricken areas. Since then, Zhang has been devoting herself to the girls' education and changed thousands of girls' life.

It's her selfless commitment to her students and her persistence for the education career that touch me a lot.

第二节

参考范文:

When the day was finally over, Brianna shared her day with her father. Hearing what Brianna said, her father smiled, "New life means not only new challenges but also opportunities. It all depends on you." Inspired by what her father said, Brianna was determined to adjust herself to fit in here. She knew that it wasn't easy, and she needed to make an effort. During the breaks, she encouraged herself to reach out to some of those who were talkative, actively involved in their conversations. To her surprise, most of them were easy to get along with.

Over the next few weeks, things changed beyond Brianna's imagination. Brianna got to know more classmates and even befriended them. They started spending time together outside of school. They chatted about their interests and had fun together after school, and supported each other during tough times. Thanks to her courage, Brianna was finally able to break into her class's social circle at the new school. She was delighted that she took the initiative to reach out first, which made her high school experiences much more enjoyable.
