Text 1

M: Hello, gas bill service. What can I do for you?

W: Hi, I'm calling about my gas bill for last month because there are some charges on there that I'm concerned about.

M: I can review it with you. But first, what's your home address and the last name on the account?

Text 2

W: The 6:00, 7:30 and 8:00 trains to London still have seats open. Which one would you like?

M: I'll take the 6:00 train. How long will it take to get there?

W: Well, it'll take two and a half hours to get to London.

Text 3

W: What a pity! The accident ruined your holiday!

M: Yes, it's bad luck. I should have been more careful while driving. Now I feel awful lying here.

W: Oh, cheer up. I believe you will be out of here in a couple of days.

M: I hope so.

Text 4

M: OK, why don't you try putting your leg out a little bit more?

W: All right. Ouch! Mark, we need to stop for a minute.

M: What are you talking about? These pictures are looking great! We can't stop now!

W: But I think I pulled a muscle during that pose.

Text 5

M: Want to go to lunch today? That new restaurant across from the office is supposed to be good.

W: I can't. I brought my own lunch today because the boss told me to finish some writing. I need to stay in the office.

M: All right. Maybe next time.

Text 6

W: Where will we go during this break?

M: I was thinking of a place in Mexico. Do you remember we went to that really hot place several years ago in August? The water was almost as warm as the air and we had a hard time sleeping at night.

W: Yeah...

M: I'd like to go back there.

W: But...

M: Don't worry, though. We went during the summer last time. This time, it'll be winter.

The weather there is perfect in January. And we'll be able to watch the whales that live there from December to February.

Text 7

M: How may I help you?

W: Hi, I would like to rent a car.

M: Sure. Did you make a reservation?

W: No. I decided to rent one when I got off the plane just now. Is that okay?

M: Of course. I was just checking. So how many days do you need the car for?

W: Can I just do four days for now and make the rent longer through a phone call later?

M: In that case, I suggest you go for seven days, which will give you a 20% discount. And if you choose to return the car after five days, you can get the rest of your money back.

W: Okay, I will do that. Can I return the car at the train station?

M: Yes, you can.

Text 8

W: Dad, I was talking with my school director today.

M: Oh, good. What did she recommend? Majoring in business?

W: Not exactly.

M: Then what did you talk about?

W: Ah, well. I'm thinking about studying music.

M: Music? Ah, Julie, trust me. You'll never get a job that way.

W: But, Dad, that's what I'm interested in.

M: Well, interests are fine, but you have to plan to study something useful, like business.

W: Business! Dad, I hate business.

M: Well, why don't you study computer programming? You're good at maths and computer science.

W: Computer programming! It's so boring.

M: Well, Julie, you're going to have to think about this a little more. College is your way to get a good job.

W: But Dad, college is a way for me to learn more about what I'm interested in.

Text 9

M: Today our topic is Animals in Danger. We have Jenny Black from WWF with us. Jenny, what do you think of the way people treat animals?

W: We're often cruel to animals. In fact, there are very few animals on our earth which are not in danger.

M: Really? Are things that bad?

W: Yes. We all know how polluted our earth has become. Well, if pollution is affecting our air and water, then all the animals are suffering. Cutting down trees to grow crops or build houses is another major reason.

M: So what do you think we can do about it?

W: One important thing we can all do is to be more careful about the products we buy when we are abroad. Many countries are still selling skin coats and that kind of thing. If we stop buying these products, they will have to stop killing animals to produce them.

M: That's right. Well, is there anything we can do in our own neighborhoods?

W: First, we can try to clean up our environment. Then if you notice anyone breaking environmental laws you must report them to the police. Also, if there is a zoo in your area, you can make sure that the animals are being well looked after.

M: Yeah. We should try to recreate the natural conditions as much as possible in the zoos.

W: That's true.

Text 10

W: That was Ellen with tonight's political news. Good evening, I'm Jenny with this week's weather report. Although it was sunny today, it looks like a storm is headed in tonight, with rainfall supposed to last until Sunday afternoon. We should expect thunder and lightning tomorrow morning, which will last into late Tuesday afternoon. The rain should ease off a bit by Thursday night, although light showers will last through the end of the week. Today, we saw temperatures in the low ten degrees, but this week, certain areas will reach a low of six degrees at night and sixteen degrees during the day. With Thanksgiving coming up, there will be a lot of traffic this week as people head to holiday celebrations. Please be careful when driving in the rain, especially in areas that are likely to flood. Have a great week, everyone! Now over to Maria with the traffic report.

Dear Peter,

I'm glad to hear that you are coming to visit Wuyi Mountain. It is a famous scenic spot in China, with a history of more than 900 years. The most famous scenic spot of course is Tianyou Peak. With trees and amazing rocks, it's a good place to hike. Bamboo rafting in Jiqu Stream is what you can't miss. Besides, you can also enjoy Wuyi Rock Tea, one of the most famous teas in China.

I believe you will have a good time there.

Yours,

Slowly, I walked towards the girl and didn't know what I should say to her. Just when I wanted to turn around, the girl said, "Hi! You can eat your soup here by me!" "No! I'm a volunteer. I brought this for you," I explained. I put the bowl of soup down in front of her and quickly walked back to Grandpa. While serving others food, I looked back at the girl. She was rocking again with that same sad look. After returning home, I just couldn't forget about that poor girl.

"I want to do Give-back Time with you again and give that girl some of my clothes," I told Grandpa. "I'm pleased," Grandpa said. I told my mom what I wanted to do. She thought that was a wonderful idea. Then, I busily picked out the clothes that could suit the girl. On Sunday, when we went to the Family Togetherness Home again, I walked towards the girl and handed her the bag of clothes. Learning what were inside, she smiled and said, "Thank you!" After that day, I visited her a few times and saw she wore my clothes. That summer, I understood one should be glad about what she already had.
